A video showing University of Michigan students cursing at his Uber driver went viral Sunday.

According to reports, on March 20, Jake Croman \(http://www.michiganreview.com/5820-2/\), and his friends attempted to enter an Uber car in Ann Arbor, Michigan, despite being banned from using Uber's service numerous times.

Artur Zawada, the Uber driver, refused to allow the students into his car, and Croman started to yell at Zawada, calling him a "minimum wage faggot."

"They don't give a shit about you," Croman said, referring to the university. I spend the most money here."

Croman told TheTab.com that the video shows only Zawada's side of the incident, and said the driver made an offensive remark and "refused to pick me up on the basis of my religion."

"I am not proud of my reaction to his discrimination and I regret my choice of words," Croman said. "Shortly after the verbal altercation, I filed a complaint with the Ann Arbor police department and they are now dealing with the issue."

Zawada disputed Croman's accusations.
