

EMILY SMITH

Hamptons society parties at Playboy-themed bash

By Emily Smith

August 12, 2014 | 12:40am

The soirée was complete with a replica of Hugh Hefner's famed grotto in the center of a tent with pink carpeting.

Shutterstock

Real estate investors Harriet and Steven Croman created a Playboy-themed bash in the Hamptons on Friday night, complete with a replica of Hugh Hefner's famed grotto in the center of a tent.

Completing the theme, pale pink carpeting surrounded a dance floor.

Guests at the Water Mill soiree were treated to a series of one-hit wonders from the 1970s who performed throughout the night, including "Heaven Must Have Sent You" singer Bonnie Pointer.

Partying the night away were Alison Brod, Kuhn Automotive's Jason Kuhn, Donny Deutsch, Julie Macklowe, Katie Lee Joel and Charlie Walk, who swung from a swing attached to the ceiling.

READ NEXT Nacho Figueras wins Piaget Hamptons Cup
